PRIDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1860.

The State Convention of Wednesday was largely attended. The Hall will seat 800 persons and was packed to its utmost capacity (300 or 400 more), while multitudes came who were unable to get in. Judging from this is tyrannical—that it is even more two the long trains which brought the people from all directions we think it not above the mark to place the number of those who
